73 Best Websites for Artists

By Watercolor Artist Staff

A Google search for "art" brings up (are you ready?) nearly 2 billion websites! Finding what you want in such a deluge of information can be challenging to say the least. We know you don't want to waste precious studio time wading through all that data when all you really want to do is paint, so we've made it easy for you. Whether you're trying to find a description of John Singer Sargent's color palette, how to protect your work from copyright infringement, or find out once and for all if you're a Picasso person or a Matisse person (yes, there's a web page for that), we've found the sites that'll help. To make it even easier to find what you're looking for, we've divided the list of our favorite art sites into 10 categories: reference; museums; videos; exhibitions/competitions; community; awareness/advocacy; protecting yourself; jobs in the arts; products; and sites just for fun. (Look for the ■ for our family of sites.)

Reference

www.artchive.com

An online database of information on artists and art movements alike, the Artchive is a rich resource for artists' biographical information, images of major works and links to far deeper resources. Download a free wallpaper calendar featuring a different artist each month.

www.artcyclopedia.com

Artcyclopedia is a large, dynamic database of links and information on your favorite artists. It's an excellent resource for finding out which museums hold their best work, and a good place to begin your search for more in-depth material.

■ www.artistsnetwork.com

The online home of Watercolor Artist, The Artist's Magazine and The Pastel Journal, ArtistsNetwork.com offers ideas and solutions for artists in all media.

www.artlex.com

What's anamorphosis? Find out on ArtLex, the online art dictionary. Entries are hyperlinked, indexed and often include illustrations.

www.artquotes.net

Ever wonder what Andrew Wyeth had to say about dreams? Artquotes.net is the place for you. Search the site's database for quotes from famous artists and sign up to receive two inspirational art quotes, three times a week—a special treat for your creative inbox.

www.artsandartists.org

Keep track of traveling exhibitions with International Art & Artists. The nonprofit organization sponsors nearly 40 shows in the United States and around the world every year. It also offers international training programs for young artists.

www.askart.com

Visit AskArt for answers to your questions regarding well-known artists in the United States and beyond. The database prides itself on its status as one of the largest pools of information about artists available online today. Artists are easily searchable and most entries include biographical references and book and magazine listings.

■ www.fwmagazines.com

Misplaced your favorite issue of Watercolor Artist? Find single back issues, as well as entire years' worth of the magazine on CD.

■ www.nlbooks.com

Looking for even more watercolor instruction and inspiration? Check out the fine art books from North Light Books.

<http://painting.about.com>

The art hub of the larger About.com site, this resource for artists features answers to common painting-related questions, as well as blogs, demonstrations and instruction for beginners. Follow the Watercolor Painting links for good tips.

■ www.watercolorartistmagazine.com

Search our article database for tips and techniques from the magazine and get extra online-exclusive material, including video slide shows of featured artists' work and step-by-step painting demonstrations.

www.watercolorpainting.com/glossary.htm

This hub of information for watercolor artists came into being when one devoted painter discovered that the domain name happened to be available for purchase. Today it's a solid resource for tips and tutorials suitable for beginning and intermediate watercolor artists.

Museums

www.artic.edu/aic

Art Institute of Chicago's site keeps you up to speed on its exhibitions, collection, new developments, including The Modern Wing, scheduled to open in 2009, and events such as The Art Institute Elderhostel program.

www.brooklynmuseum.org

Brooklyn Museum, the first American art museum to begin a watercolor collection, offers a comprehensive, downloadable PDF watercolor glossary. Keep it right on your desktop for quick studio reference.

www.getty.edu

View The Getty's permanent collection, or check out what's currently on display with highlighted works from exhibitions, such as "A Light Touch: Exploring Humor in Drawing" (September 23–December 7).

www.louvre.fr

The Louvre's site offers online tours—including "Masterpieces of the Louvre," featuring 300 works from the collection—in-depth studies of individual works and a daily examination of a master painting.

www.metmuseum.org

The Metropolitan Museum of Art boasts the Timeline of Art History, a reference guide written by The Met's curatorial, conservation and education staff.

www.mfa.org

www.tate.org.uk

At Tate Online, you can browse the collections and current exhibitions of Tate Britain, Tate Modern, Tate Liverpool and Tate St. Ives.

www.walkerart.org

It's immediately clear by the Walker Art Center's website—neon banners gliding by in opposite directions—that this Minneapolis museum is a contemporary art center. The highlight of the site is the museum's seven individual blogs, categorized by art form.

Videos

■ www.artistsnetwork.tv

This service allows you to get expert painting instruction by renowned artists in your own home, on your own schedule. Buy access to a single workshop video or a six-month subscription to the entire video library.

73 Best Websites for Artists

www.ccpvideos.com

Take a workshop with your favorite artist from the comfort of your own studio with Creative Catalyst's instructional videos. Visit the site to browse the catalogue and read the blog to catch the news on new productions.

www.youtube.com

While the quality of the instructional videos on YouTube may not be phenomenal, the range of offerings for watercolor artists certainly is. At last glance, there were more than 3,500 short watercolor videos available. The trick is narrowing the search to suit your needs. Get specific.

Exhibitions/Competitions

www.artcalendar.com

The online home of Art Calendar magazine, this site's Calls to Artists page breaks down opportunities into those that require a fee to enter and those that are free. Plus, they post select business articles from the print publication.

www.artdeadlineslist.com

Find leads for just about anything you want to do with your art, including contests and competitions, jobs and internships, scholarships, grants and fellowships, art festivals and other calls for entry.
